Visayan cacao, and even to Palawan, looking for the niche for their livelihood.

Visayan Mindanao, and even to Palawan, looking for the niche for their livelihood. Visayan cacao, and even to Palawan, looking for the niche for their livelihood. Visayan cacao, and even to Palawan, looking for the niche for their livelihood. Visayan cacao, and even to Palawan, looking for the niche for their livelihood. Visayan cacao, and even to Palawan, looking for the niche for their livelihood.

The legend of Maria Cacao is quite popular among the people of the Province of Negros Oriental, particularly in the area of the Town of Guimaras. It is a folk story that has been passed down through generations, and it is believed to be true. The legend states that Maria Cacao was a young woman who lived in a small village in the area. She was known for her beauty and her kindness. One day, a wealthy man named Don Juan came to her village and fell in love with Maria. He promised her a life of luxury if she would marry him. But Maria refused his proposals, saying that she loved her village and her people more than anything else.

Don Juan was angry at Maria's refusal, and he decided to punish her. He sent his men to burn down her village and kill all the people. But Maria was able to escape and hide in a nearby cave. She lived there for many years, waiting for the day when she could return to her people.

One day, Maria heard that Don Juan was coming to take revenge. She gathered all the people of her village and told them to be ready. When Don Juan arrived, she led her people in a fierce battle. They fought bravely, and in the end, they were able to defeat

Don Juan and his men. Maria was hailed as a hero, and she was celebrated for her bravery and courage.

The legend of Maria Cacao is a reminder to the people of the Province of Negros Oriental that they should never give up on their dreams, no matter how difficult they may seem. It is a story of hope and resilience, and it is a source of inspiration to everyone who listens to it.